This rumor is not [illegible]

[illegible] Oct. 22.—A dispatch to the Daily News [illegible] has been received from Constan[illegible] the Porte will accept a six weeks ar[illegible] that the reform project [illegible] with, and the status quo be maintained.

[illegible] the Daily Telegraph says the [illegible] with an address from the [illegible] the readiness of all [illegible] In reference to war [illegible] of the slaves. Similar addresses [illegible] from town councils through [illegible]

[illegible] there is perhaps danger in reason[illegible] is evident we need not despair of [illegible] away without an outbreak of [illegible] and Turkey. The same [illegible] Union is [illegible] held in other [illegible]. The recent excitement has had the effect of demonstrating what [illegible] the [illegible] of the powers in case of an aggressive war by Russia.

London, Oct. 23.—A dispatch to the official Russian telegraph agency says that the parting of the British ambassador at St. Petersburg, for Livadia, and Gen. Ignatieff for Constantinople, should be interpreted as further proof that Russia and England are endeavoring to arrive at a sound and lasting pacification.

A dispatch from Bucharest reports that the battle array of the concentrated Roumanian army has been officially published and that Prince Charles assumes the command.

London, Oct. 22.—A dispatch from Vienna to the Times says the most touching harmony rules in Livadia. The powers [illegible] answer uttered with startling [illegible] which has more than once startled diplomacy, may be credited with having [illegible] new understanding about the [illegible]. [illegible] was to decline with Russia in favor of the [illegible] of six weeks armistice because Russia committed [illegible] free to act, while the others had perfect liberty of action. England, which had already accepted the six months armistice, decided to accept a basis for the restoration of a so called harmony by offering a [illegible] of six weeks truce, but having at the same time disclaimed the lead which she has hitherto held in the negotiations with the Porte, the initiative now devolves on Russia and Gen. Ignatieff has returned to take it.

Fighting in the Timok and Morava valleys and on the Drina has been renewed with great stubbornness.

Gen. Tchernayeff telegraphs that the Turks were repulsed along the whole line, while newspaper correspondents are unanimous that the Servians were badly defeated, losing 1700 men in the attempt at Baltschar and 8000 about Deligrade. One correspondent telegraphs the Turks have taken position around Djunis and will probably take Djunis, in which case Deligrade, Alexinatz, Gen. Tchernayeff's new headquarters at Kanavik, and the whole Moravian valley will be in their hands. Russian officers, of whom there are said to be fourteen in each Servian battalion, suffered heavily in the recent fight.

Bucharest, Oct. 22.—The Servians admit that the Turks captured Krevet heights southwest of Djunis after three days fighting. One bulletin says that although the position is important its loss is not believed to be decisive. As Djunis commands the Servian line the position is critical. Russia's active aid is anxiously awaited.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

No Fear of a Cotton Spinners' Lock-Out.

London, Oct. 22.—The operative cotton spinners of Blackburn have decided to withdraw their notices and practically the dispute in North and northwestern Lancashire is at an end.

Duel.

The Standard's Paris special reports a duel fought on Swiss territory between Viscompte Barnet Des Rochus and Paul Gerard. The latter was pierced by a sword and his life is in danger. The affair is the result of a political quarrel.

Bank of England.

London, Oct. 23.—Amount of bullion withdrawn from the Bank of England on balance to day £101,000.

Advance in Consols.

London, Oct. 23.—The steady advance in consols and their international stocks which fell during last week's panic indicates the prevailing impression here that war is not imminent and that a peaceable solution of the Eastern question is not impossible.

Fearful Murder.

London, Oct. 23.—Leonard Amblain, a Belgian who was arrested in July last on board the outward bound steamer from Liverpool, accused of the robbery and murder of M. Marsut, a banker, and his housekeeper at Civreg near Brussels, was delivered on Friday to a Belgian officer at Dover. When they arrived at Ostend the officer and his prisoner, the latter manacled, took a special compartment. Both were missing. The compartment occupied was deluged with blood and bore marks of a terrific struggle. The body of the officer was found beside the track with his skull battered. All his valuables were missing, and it is conjectured that Amblain watched his opportunity to attack the officer with his wrist irons and beat him to death, after which he unlocked his manacles and escaped. He has not yet been captured.

Famine Threatened in India.

London, Oct. 23.—A Calcutta dispatch to the Times states that the prospect for crops in Bombay becomes daily more gloomy. The districts of Khandesh, Nassick, Ahmednuggur, Poonah, Shokpoor, Klanda and Burmar, containing a population of nearly six millions, are threatened with severe distress. The local government estimates that over 900,000 [illegible] in the above districts alone. It is stated that the Monsoon crops have entirely failed, and the absence of rain prevents the sowing of rubber and winter crops. The collector of Poonah reports that not a single blade of grass is visible for miles. The tanks and rivers are drying up and the cattle dying from starvation. The collector at Shakpore gives a still worse account. The government has no relief works and is employing people in excavating tanks and making roads. The alarming European telegrams of the last two days have had the effect of further depressing government securities, which are unusually low for six months past. Tea shares, however, are strong owing to reliable accounts from Assam and Lucktar gardens. This is a remarkably good year for tea, and the quantity will greatly exceed any former years.

The Calcutta wheat trade has had a wonderful rise lately. In 1870 the quantity exported was 2,000 tons; in 1873, 10,000; in 1874, 8,000; last year 50,000, and this year already 12,000 tons have been exported from Calcutta alone. This wheat is growing chiefly in Punjaub.

British Grain Trade.

London, Oct. 23.—The Mark Lane Express in its review of the British corn trade for the past week says the land has become so sodden with the recent rains that the greatest difficulty has been experienced in autumn tillage. It is now most important that the sowing of winter wheat be no longer delayed. The effects of the past three weeks of wet weather have been most disastrous in the North, where the wretched condition of outstanding crops has been further deteriorated by heavy floods, which have submerged considerable tracts of land and done irreparable damage. It is also much to be regretted that the damp atmosphere and higher temperature have tended to the general blight of the potato crop, and the disease has not been confined to Scotland, where rain has done the most mischief, but in several districts in England, despite recent appearances, the rapid growth of the root crops has rendered the prospect abundant. Winter feed is more hopeful, although such an excess of moisture can scarcely be expected to improve the quality. The weighty authority of Mr. Lawes confirms the opinion that our probable requirements during the cereal year will be 14,000,000 quarters, whilst imports since Sept. 1st have been at the rate of 8,000,000. Of these figures the recent advance seems justified, part from political contingencies which have both quickened and stimulated it in the present disturbed condition of affairs. It is almost impossible to quote local trade with any degree of accuracy; sellers are not disposed to let wheat go except at an improvement of 3s 2d per quarter, but for the movement buyers meet with considerable caution. There has been a limited amount of business in floating cargoes during the week owing to the scarcity of arrivals, and sales indicate an improvement of 1s@1s 6d per quarter, whilst important transactions have taken place in cargoes on passage and for shipment at fully this advance.

Constantinople, Oct. 23.—The government has discovered a conspiracy to murder the Grand Vizier and Midhat Pasha, and has consequently arrested two Ulemas of high rank and Ramis Pasha. Culprits have been transported to various islands. Other arrests are expected.

LOPEZ ISLAND

This island, situated at the junction of Puget Sound and the Straits of Fuca, is thus described by the Seattle Intelligencer:

It is about twelve miles in length and averages about four miles in width, containing 13,600 acres of good agricultural land; 5,600 acres of this is now occupied by settlers, and the remaining 8,000 acres, containing fine claims, has not yet been taken. It belongs to Uncle Sam's domain, is all surveyed and can be had for the taking. This land is principally rich marsh and alder bottoms. The latter is easily cleared and the former can soon be prepared for cultivation, and both are very productive. The thirty five settlers on the island are thrifty and industrious and are rapidly improving their farms. Messrs. Brown and Nelson have each forty five acres under cultivation this year. Potatoes are the principal product, and next comes hay, grain and other vegetables. A large amount of the former will be raised this year. The quality will be excellent, and the blight has so far been unknown there. There are large numbers of excellent cattle on the island and about 1,500 sheep. The pasturage is excellent and the climate so favorable that the stock does well during the winter by grazing alone. Some excellent Cotswold sheep have been imported there this season, and the farmers are turning their attention to the breeding of better stock generally. Of the thirty five claims taken, twenty six have been located this season, and consequently there has been quite an amount of land cleared and put under cultivation this summer, and several new dwelling houses built. One settler has three acres of onions in this season. Last summer a fine turnpike road was completed from one end of the island to the other, a distance of twelve miles.

Probability of Trouble in the Event of a Close Vote for President.

San Francisco, Oct. 23.—The Call this morning publishes an interview with Senators Booth and Cooper, the latter being a member of the Chinese commission. The former, in the course of conversation, remarked with regard to counting the electoral vote: If either the Republicans or Democrats gain a decisive victory the machinery of the Government will work smoothly, but in case a question arises as to the rightful possession of the White House there will be little hope of an amicable settlement. He went on to instance the case of the election depending on the vote of South Carolina, as it was almost certain that there will be duplicate electoral returns from that State; who can tell what may come of it. There will be objection raised to the vote and no means of accepting or rejecting said objection. So we will be left in the sad position of a country without an Executive—I may say without government. Senator Cooper spoke to the same effect, but in more decided terms, expressing the fear that unless one or the other of the presidential candidates won by a decided majority a fratricidal war will ensue, infinitely more horrible than the late rebellion, as that was a sectional conflict, while this would be an internecine struggle without hope of result, and the only possible end being the destruction of this Government.

A Murderer Attempts Suicide.

Thomas D. Nice, now in confinement in one of the tank cells in the city prison awaiting his examination on a charge of murdering Luona Mohs, alias Jennie Neill, attempted suicide this afternoon by closing all apertures about the cell with his clothing and turning on the gas. When found he was in an insensible condition and was with great difficulty revived.

Defaulter Brought Back.

H. C. Bennett, defaulting pension agent of this city, arrived last evening on the overland train in charge of the U. S. deputy marshal. Bennett is a defaulter to the amount of $[illegible],000 and fled from this city to Colorado, where at the time of his arrest he was editing a paper.

Overman Stock A[illegible]

Overman has levied an assessment of $3 per share, delinquent November 25th.

Registration of Voters in San Francisco.

In the board of supervisors this afternoon a communication was read from Capt. John Mullan, stating he had consulted legal advisers, by whom he had been assured that the action of Nathaniel Holland with regard to the registration matter was illegal and unconstitutional. Supervisor Strather, who presented the communication, stated that he had asked the advice of the attorney general, but had received no response. The judiciary committee reported that it had ordered 2,000 copies of the black list printed; also that the communication and resolutions of the Democratic State central committee, stating the action of the U. S. supervisor of election with regard to registration and the names of citizens asking such action by the board, as well as the citizens whether the position assumed by the U. S. authorities is right and proper, and has been referred to the attorney general of the State for his opinion upon the subject. The excitement on this question is quieting down a little, and the cooler headed members of both parties are taking a more rational view of the matter, evincing the conclusion that nothing is intended or likely to occur prejudicial to the rights of legitimate citizens, but there has been a great rush during the day to correct the records on the part of naturalized voters.

Loss of Life by the Whaling Fleet Disaster.

San Francisco, Oct. 23.—It has been definitely ascertained that of the crews of the whalers lost in the Arctic ocean six perished from exposure on the ice pack and fifty three remained behind on the ships, including those who returned to them after commencing the journey to land, one of whom was the fourth mate of the ship St. George.

Point Bonita Lighthouse.

Work has been commenced on the new lighthouse at Point Bonita, for which an appropriation of $20,000 was made by the last Congress. It is to be located on the extreme point near the sea level, that now standing on the bluff being frequently hidden by fog and low lying clouds.

Unrecognized Corpse Found.

The body of an unknown man was found off Mission street wharf this afternoon.

Trotting at Oakland.

The event at Oakland Park to day was the pacing race for a purse of $600, mile heats, 3 in 5, to harness. The entries were Dan Rice, By Tracy, John Scmelin, Lady St. Clair, Tim Brown and Longfellow. Only the first four started. Dan Rice won handily in three straight heats. Time, 2:20, 2:22 and [illegible].

Sen. Morton on the Stump in California.

Senator Morton is this evening addressing the largest assemblage that has gathered in Union Hall since the Ralston memorial meeting. The building was packed to its utmost capacity, many ladies being present.

The meeting, under the auspices of the Boys in Blue, was called to order by Col. J. J. Jackson, commanding officer of that organization, who introduced Senator Sargent as president. Sargent made a few remarks referring to the record of Senator Morton, dwelling especially on his services during the rebellion as war governor of Indiana.

Morton was then introduced and received a most enthusiastic reception. Owing to his physical disability he retained his seat during his entire speech, which he began with graceful and pertinent allusion to the [illegible] to the Union maintained by California during the war of the rebellion. From that he diverged into an eloquent presentation of the issues which patriotism devolved upon the citizens [illegible], and continued his address with an able review of the political situation and record of the two great parties of the country. The immense audience gave the most earnest attention to the remarks of the speaker, and frequently interrupted him with bursts of applause. Morton is still speaking, [illegible] the [illegible] interest of [illegible].

Smallpox.

Oroville, Oct. 23.—Two cases of smallpox broke out in this place. At a citizens' meeting held yesterday measures were taken to prevent its further spreading. A pest house has been built and the cases strictly quarantined.

District Fair at Marysville.

Marysville, Oct. 23.—The 10th annual exhibition of the Northern District Fair opened to day under favorable auspices. The show of stock surpasses both in numbers and quality anything ever before exhibited here. The weather is delightful and the attendance flattering. The programme at the track begins with a three minute purse for $250, for which Lady Clark, Doty, Tule Duck, Miller and Duchess were entered. Lady Clark was ruled out on account of her record. The race proved satisfactory only to lovers of pastime and buyers of low pools. Miller was favorite, $20 to $14 to Tule Duck and $6 for Doty. The latter took the lead from the start and gradually increased the distance between him and the others to the end of the stretch, down which he came under a strong pull, and crossed the score in good time for a green 5 year old colt of [illegible], distancing Tule Duck and Duchess. The two next heats were easily won by Doty. Time [illegible]. Doty is a promising colt. This is his first training, and judges say he could easily have come down in the twenties.

UTAH

Detective Suspected of Robbery.

Salt Lake, Oct. 23.—Geo. W. Rose, private detective of this city, was arrested to day on a charge of complicity with the messenger in the robbery of Wells Fargo & Co.'s express between this city and Ogden.

H. B. Clawson, Superintendent of Zion's Co-operative Mercantile Institution, resigned. Hon. H. S. Eldredge was elected to fill the vacancy.

OREGON

Wheat 90 cents at Independence.

The Dalles brass band has disbanded.

A Liberal Association has been organized at Baker City.

The circuit court for Linn county is in session at Albany.

The electioneering on the bridge question at Salem has already begun in that city.

There is more of a demand for the goods of the Brownsville woolen factory than the mill is able to supply.

Watson & Uhlrs' sawmill near Pendleton was burned down on the 13th. The lumber was all saved but 2,000 feet.

Nineteen marriage licenses were issued by the county clerk of Linn county during the first nineteen days of this month.

The Mountaineer hopes Wasco county will refuse the gift of the State, the mint building, and says it is of no earthly account and will only be an expense to the county to have it taken care of.

Out of six churches in The Dalles only three are now supplied with ministers. A consolidation of the forces would be an advantage to all concerned, especially so during the winter months.

The county court of Grant county is desirous of having the boundary line between that county and Wasco defined. At present there are a number of settlers who do not know in which county they reside.

The big horse brought from Philadelphia by Major Bruce of Benton county passed through Independence last Sunday on his way to Corvallis. He is 17½ hands high and 7 feet and several inches in girth.

Next season, says the Astorian, there will be ten canneries in Astoria. In addition to the five that were in operation here this season, the following are to be added to next season's business: The Fishermen's Packing Association; Wadhams and Hanthorn; the Anglo American Packing Co.; Corbitt & Macleay et al.; Robert Watson, of the Manhattan Cannery, is to build another cannery here, and Messrs. Bradley, Davis & Co. also a cannery. These are severally to be located in upper Astoria.

THE TERRITORIES

A ranch near Lapwai, Idaho, produced 113 bushels of oats to the acre.

A. Leland, Esq., it is said, will soon resume the Northerner at Lewiston, Idaho.

Montana's gold yield of 1876 promises to be larger than that of last year by over $100,000.

The Idaho Statesman claims that the Mon[illegible] in that Territory is wonderfully rich.

A span of Percheron fillies bought at the Oregon State Fair and taken to Seattle are said to be the finest span of animals in Washington Territory.

We learn from the Skagit river, W. T., that the farmers in that city are about through getting in their harvest. The hay crop has been immense and the grain crop very good, but the potato crop will be very small compared with the number of acres in cultivation. This partial failure of the potato crop is due to the blight which has been very prevalent there this season.

PLATFORM OF THE INDEPENDENT LEGAL TENDER PARTY

The Independent Legal Tender party of Oregon at its State Convention, which met at Salem on the 10th inst., adopted the following platform:

Whereas, The currency question is of most vital importance to the people and presents the most substantial issue in the present campaign, and is paramount to all other questions before the country; and

Whereas, The contraction of the currency has produced prostration in business and bankruptcy, poverty and want; and

Whereas, Both Democratic and Republican parties have adopted hard money platforms and declared against the legal tender currency; therefore,

Resolved, That there is no hope for the people except in the success of the Independent Legal Tender party.

2. That we are in favor of placing before the voters of this State a legal tender electoral ticket.

3. That we cordially approve the selection of Peter Cooper and Samuel F. Carey as our standard bearers, and pledge them our earnest support.

4. That we endorse and approve the platform of principles adopted by the National Legal Tender party at Indianapolis.

5. We are in favor of so altering or amending the treaty with the Chinese Empire known as the Burlingame treaty as to prohibit the further immigration of Chinese to our country, except at the pleasure of the Government of the United States or of the several States of this Union.

LETTER FROM VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Oct. 21, 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Judge Jacobs spoke in this place last night and very clearly and forcibly stated the situation to a full house. But one sentiment is heard from either Democrat or Republican—that he has done his duty as a delegate. Many Democrats in this place and county will cast their votes for him on the day of election. He is good for from 75 to 100 majority on the day of election. When Mr. Judson spoke here he went out of his way to abuse our Capt. Smallwood, register of the land office, as a carpet bagger, all of which was returned with compound interest by the captain, who for about thirty minutes kept the house in a roar of laughter as he met the harmless charge of the would be delegate. After which he devoted a considerable time to the issues of the day with marked effect.

A CARD

Freeport, Cowlitz Co., W. T.,
October [illegible], 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

I see by your paper of October 21st what purports to be a list of candidates nominated by a so called Citizens' Convention held at Kalama at some indefinite time, in which my name appears as a candidate for Joint Representative. I take this method of informing the voters of Cowlitz and Wahkiakum counties that my name was used without my knowledge or consent, and that I am not a candidate for any office at the ensuing election. I encouraged the nomination of what is known in this county as the Independent ticket, and I expect to support it at the polls with my vote.

LETTER FROM SALEM

Salem, Oct. 2[illegible], 1876.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

Echo is itself once more in Salem dito. The wheels of cosmopolitan quietude have resumed the well worn ruts, and our streets again look natural. We have been unnaturally stirred up during the past few weeks, and the average Salemite has scarcely taken a long breath until Saturday last, when with the departure of the trains north and south went up, as it were, a sigh of relief, and matters and things generally resumed their customary serenity. The breaking up of the ninth biennial session of the Oregon legislative assembly was attended with the usual amusing scenes and incidents. Friday was of course the busiest day of the session, many of the important measures having been delayed

UNTIL THE VERY LAST MOMENT,

When they were rushed through regardless of consequences. Take, for instance, the pilotage and towage bill, in which Portlanders were so much interested, and which was introduced early in the session; it was allowed to dilly dally along in the Senate until the last week of the session, when it was passed and sent to the House, where other business delayed it until the last day of the session. It was taken into consideration the last evening, numerous amendments attached, and returned to the Senate for concurrence and enrollment. The former was easily done, but as it did not reach the enrolling committee until 9 o'clock it left them but an hour to enroll it for official signature. Three clerks at once divided work on it and worked with a will. It was in vain, however, as the

LEGISLATURE ADJOURNED

Sine die while yet several pages remained uncopied, and the bill died, as did others in the hands of the enrolling committee. When will our Solons learn to push their business through from the very first, instead of rushing so on the last two days of the session. The lobbies of either House were crowded on the last evening of the session, and there was much hurrying to and fro, as members, pages, messengers and third housemen were jostling and pushing about, hurrying forward too long delayed measures. Bills were read first, second and third time and passed inside of fifteen minutes, and all was hasty legislation, which may and no doubt does explain the fact of so much

UNWISE LEGISLATION

Which is usually enacted during the closing hours of the session. The Senate has cause of congratulation in being presided over by such an officer as Hon. John Whiteaker, who at all times proved himself a prompt, impartial and efficient President. Dignified at all times—save perhaps the first reading of the bill to improve the breed of sheep—he kept matters running along smoothly, giving offense to none and making friends of all. But one appeal was taken from his decision during the entire session, he being then sustained by a large majority of the Senate. Chief Clerk Simpson and assistant Clerk Baker could not be excelled in their respective offices, while the remaining officers of the Upper House were all that could be desired.

THE OREGONIAN REPORTERS

Would take the present opportunity of returning their sincere and heartfelt thanks to the officers and members of the ninth biennial session for the uniform courtesy shown us while reporting proceedings for the press. To Hon. S. F. Chadwick, Secretary of State, especially are we indebted for favors received, and in unison with all who know him we can recommend him as a courteous gentleman and an accommodating State officer. William Savage, Esq., of the Capitol building has our thanks for favors shown us during the forty days session. The Senate chamber after final adjournment was for an hour or more the scene of congratulatory farewells, and it was with sincere regret that we separated with some of those with whom we had been so pleasantly associated.

GATHERING UP THE FRAGMENTS

Took place on Saturday and was well attended with the customary scenes. Members loaded up their little satchels, baskets, trunks or boxes, as the case might be, with the "perquisites" of the session. Some, we learn, even getting away with their spittoons. Deady's code and Oregon reports will again be scattered promiscuously throughout the State, while first class stationery and pocket cutlery will for the first time perhaps find its way into the homes of some backwoods member. To them all we say, farewell. Their glory has departed with them, and their deeds speak for themselves. We resign them into the merciful hands of their constituents, and if they can say "Well done, thou good and faithful servant," why, we can but respond Amen.

CAPITAL NOTES

Frank Dwyer and Miss Fannie Northcutt were made one yesterday, and of course are correspondingly happy.

Capt. J. H. Fisher, having filed the necessary bonds, will to-day qualify and at once assume the duties of State librarian. J. J. Murphy and B. Coffee are his sureties.

The river at this point has risen some eight feet, and boats to day will commence running through to Corvallis.

The bridge question again agitates the tax payers of this city, there being, as usual, two sides to the problem.

The city election assumes visible proportions, and candidates have commenced their button holing.

The meagreness of the capitol appropriation is not very suggestive of a "fat take" for the newly elected commissioners.

Whew! how it has rained during the past week, with no visible indications of cessation.

Rt. Rev. Bishop Morris officiated in St. Paul's Episcopal church yesterday. Negotiations are pending for the engagement of a regular pastor in the person of Rev. A. F. Anderson of Centerville, Cal.

Rev. E. C. Chirouse, who tendered his resignation as Indian agent about a year ago, which was finally accepted, had the pleasure on the 11th inst. to turn over to his successor J. F. Mallett all the property belonging to the Tulalip Indian agency, and is now better enabled to resume his long missionary labors among the Indians.

TUESDAY MORNING OCT. 24, 1876

A STRING OF FALSEHOODS ANSWERED.

In the Chicago Times of October 6th appears a Washington correspondence, which is copied into the San Francisco Chronicle of the 15th, and ought not to pass unnoticed by the Oregon press. Without further introduction, we present the letter in full, with its sensational caption and its sub-heads:

> Four Years in Prison.
> WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—A case of Oregon justice is now being considered at the department of justice. The details of the case make a story which is both interesting and instructive inasmuch as it is a strong reminder that all men legally convicted of crime are not necessarily guilty. Oregon, however, has a judge appointed by Ulysses whose name is Deady, and who now has the pleasing reflection that he has been mainly instrumental in having four innocent men sentenced for life and during four years stubbornly refused to aid in their liberation. It is the petition for pardons for these men that brings the case before the attorney general. In March, 1872, a stage coach carrying the United States mail and Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express matter, was attacked by armed men in Baker county, Oregon. The driver, Ed. Edgar, was overpowered, and > in currency of the realm and gold dust. Shortly after four men were arrested for the crime. They were Frank Tompkins, a well to do ranchman, Nathaniel E. [illegible], Wm. H. Bramlette and John W. White. The arrest of these men caused considerable comment in the locality where they were known as each, especially Tompkins, bore good reputations. Their trial was rushed through by the judge and the then district attorney, Gibbs. A very slight case of circumstantial evidence was made against them, which, with the strong and positive instructions from the judge, induced the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty. The crime was a peculiarly bold and lawless one, and the mere indictment of the men in the excitement attending the robbery was proof enough of their guilt to the minds of half the population. The men protested their innocence, and endeavored to get a new trial, but the illiterate person acting as judge refused to grant one. They next

> PETITIONED FOR A PARDON.
> Their petition was signed by nearly all of the legal fraternity about Portland, but the judge and district attorney indignantly refused to join in the petition. The papers came on to Washington. Geo. H. Williams, then attorney general, referred them back to the judge and district attorney, both of whom wrote decidedly adverse reports on the question of pardon. Williams then refused to recommend a pardon to the President. The prisoners did not give up hope, however, but with aid of friends on the outside, began a search for the real criminals, as their exposure was the only thing that could be used for their own release. Among these friends on the outside was Ed. Edgar, the mail carrier, who from the first, had declared that the men arrested and convicted were not the robbers. Suspicion directed Edgar to three men named Shepardson, Darnell and Phelps, the two first well known desperadoes. In the fall of 1872 Edgar made an affidavit on which a warrant for these three men was issued, but for some reason the marshal refused to serve the warrant, although the whereabouts of the men was known. From that time until the spring of 1874, all efforts of the imprisoned men to [illegible]
> THE REAL CULPRITS
> Were blocked for some mysterious reason. In March, 1874, a new district attorney came into office, and by the advice and request of some of the best citizens took an interest in the case. An alias warrant for the three men was gotten out, and through the exertions of the new district attorney it was served on Shepardson in California, where the United States judge gave him up, and on Phelps in Washington Territory, last March. Darnell has never been found. Phelps confessed. He did not do so on the promise of immunity, but said it was his first crime, and for nearly four years he had been suffering more than he could possibly have done in prison. A grand jury was impanneled and on the 17th of March Shepardson, Darnell and Phelps were indicted for the crime which innocent men were
> UNDER LIFE SENTENCES
> For committing. The judge looked on these proceedings with much disapproval, but made no protest as to the statute of limitations and allowed the trial to proceed. The jury selected for this trial was a peculiarly good one, as their names were taken from the [illegible] rolls and none but men of [illegible] chosen. The foreman was for years a member of the Oregon House of Representatives, and a man of intelligence. The evidence, which is recited in the reports made to the department of justice, is conclusive. The eye witnesses who, on the first trial, could not identify any of the four men as the robbers, swore positively as to Shepardson and Phelps. The judge in his charge, however, held that the former verdict was an acquittal of the [illegible] and directed the jury to [illegible]
> A VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL
> On the ground that the prosecution of Shepardson et al. was barred by the statute of limitation. This was the first time this point had been raised. [illegible] attempt had been made for the arrest or indictment of the real culprits [illegible] the expiration of the two years, and [illegible] judge gave up Shepardson, overruling the point as to the statute of limitations. The jury after being out 30 minutes, returned with the following verdict:
> We are of the opinion that the defendants are guilty, but, under the instructions of the judge, that they cannot be punished.
> When this was handed the judge, in great anger he tore it up, and told the jury to go back and bring in a verdict of not guilty. In the report of the district attorney, the judge is accused of using
> PROFANE AND ABUSIVE LANGUAGE
> toward the jury. Before the jury went back to their room the judge told them they would be required to answer the question, "Do you believe the men now imprisoned innocent and the men now on trial guilty?" When the jury came in the second time they presented as directed a verdict of "not guilty," and immediately after answered the question in the affirmative. So the guilty men were allowed to go free. Before the jury went to their room the second time the reports here say the judge got down off the bench and made a most violent argument for Shepardson et al. He abused the district attorney, the grand jury, and all the witnesses for the prosecution, especially Edgar, whom he charged with being in collusion with the robbers. He said that on the first and the second trial this was clearly proven to his mind. If it had been, the judge should never have allowed the men to secure life sentences, as that can only be done when life was threatened, and it had to be proven that Edgar's life was threatened. The petitions and papers here all speak of
> THE DISGRACEFUL PROCEEDINGS
> Of this specimen of Grant's appointments. When the judge wrote his opinion on the second application for a pardon he first sent it to the Portland OREGONIAN and had it published as the "Judge's decision," and so characterizes itself all through. He "decides" that the sentence of the imprisoned men should be commuted. A day or two since a letter was received by the attorney general from Geo. H. Williams, who is now in Oregon, recommending a pardon. In this letter he confirms the statements of the petition that every one in Oregon acquainted with the facts in the case are fully [illegible] and his friends are innocent men. Monday a telegram was received [illegible] Hipple Mitchell stating that the people of Oregon are becoming much exercised over the continued imprisonment of the innocent men, and that a pardon ought to be issued at once. Judge Gray, pardon clerk, who has been examining the case, is clearly of the opinion that a pardon should issue and will so recommend to Assistant Attorney Gen. Phillips.

There are almost as many gross falsehoods in this document as there are lines. It is simply a series of unmitigated falsehoods strung on the bare thread of fact that the four men named were convicted in the U. S. District Court for Oregon, in 1872, of robbing the mails; that efforts have been made to get them pardoned, and that another person was tried in the same court last May for the same offense. The gravity of the accusations here made against Judge Deady, demands specific attention to some of the most offensive and injurious of these falsehoods.

Taking up the statements of the correspondent in the order of their position in the letter, rather than that of their gravity, and leaving unnoticed the inaccuracies of detail, such as dates, etc., with which the letter abounds, we call attention to some of the most glaring untruths.

1. Judge Deady is stated to have been "appointed by Ulysses," and is placarded in head-lines as "A Sample Grant Official." It is not necessarily disgraceful to be an appointee of President Grant's; but the way this statement is made and used, makes it about the same as if the writer had adopted for his sensational heading "Another Durell!" For Oregon readers no correction of this is necessary, but for the benefit of readers in other parts, it is proper to say that so far from having been "appointed by Ulysses," Judge Deady was a Judge of the Supreme Court of the Territory for many years before, and up to the time the State government was formed, and was appointed to the position he now holds immediately on the admission of the State into the Union. Instead of coming in under the Grant administration, he has been on the bench in Oregon as a Judge of the Federal Courts for twenty-five years. The false statement that he is an appointee of President Grant was, in all probability, made to conceal the authorship of the letter, which, it is generally understood, was inspired by a "sample Grant official" here, and fathered by a disreputable fellow at Washington, both of whom, from long residence in Oregon, know the truth to be as we have stated.

2. It is said Judge Deady was "mainly instrumental in having four innocent men sentenced," &c. This is unqualifiedly false. Judge Deady was no more instrumental in the conviction of Tompkins and his pals, than any judge is instrumental in the conviction of a defendant who has a fair, impartial trial before him, as will appear more fully when we come to state the circumstances of the trial. A vigorous and able prosecution by the District Attorney and his assistants, a feeble defense, a very strong chain of evidence, and the consciences of twelve honest jurors, were the things that were "mainly instrumental" in their conviction.

3. Each of them, and "especially Tompkins," bore a good reputation. Even the desire to do justice to the character of a faithful and honest judge, who is maliciously slandered in the interest of these unfortunate men, shall not tempt us to wrong them. The thought that notwithstanding the apparently overwhelming evidence against them they may still possibly be innocent, forbids us to lay one straw in the way of their liberation. If injustice must be suffered, let it be suffered by one who is free rather than by those who are immured in the dark cells of a prison. We, therefore, underdraw rather than overdraw the picture, when we say that Tompkins did not bear a good reputation. Worse crimes than robbing the United States mail and putting the life of the carrier in jeopardy had been more than once laid at his door by common report. Justly or unjustly, he had a bad, a very bad reputation.

4. The trial "was rushed through by the Judge and the then district attorney, Gibbs." We have taken pains to examine the record of the case from beginning to end, and upon the record as well as upon personal knowledge of the facts, we pronounce that statement a bald and unqualified falsehood. The indictment was found on the 26th of July. The defendants were arraigned on the 30th, at which time they appeared as well by their counsel as in person, and pleaded "not guilty." The cause was then set down, by consent of the parties and their counsel, for trial on the 19th of August. This is shown by the record. The fact is, the defendants' counsel were urgent for a speedy trial. Was that rushing it by the judge?

The trial lasted from the 19th to the 24th of August. Was that "rushing" it through?

We have read the charge of the judge to the jury, which is on file among the records of the case, and we say without hesitation or fear of intelligent contradiction, it was as fair and as considerate of the rights of the defendants as any conscientious judge could have made it. It was not the "strong and positive instructions from the judge," but the strong and positive character of the evidence that "induced the jury to bring in a verdict of guilty."

5. "The men protested their innocence and endeavored to get a new trial, but the illiterate person acting as judge refused to grant one." Of course, the men "protested their innocence" by their plea of not guilty, just as every culprit does who thinks it better to go to trial than to plead guilty. This is the only protestation of their innocence in the record; but if they had filed affidavits on the motion for a new trial, protesting their innocence more strongly than by their plea, they would only have done that which is common to criminals asking new trials, and would therefore have furnished no occasion for remark.

But the implication that Judge Deady did not give them a fair hearing on their motion for a new trial is infamously false. Let us go to the record again. From the record it appears that on the 24th of August, the day the verdict was rendered, the time for moving for a new trial was extended by stipulation of counsel for the respective parties, to the 28th. At the expiration of that time, J. C. Moreland, one of defendants' attorneys, filed an affidavit asking an extension of time to file the motion, assigning as the only ground therefor that he had such information as led him to believe that other parties had committed the crime, that a warrant had been issued for them and placed in the hands of Ad. Edgar and W. F. Williams, deputy U. S. Marshals, who had gone off to hunt up the other parties, and to "arrest them, unless certain strong suspicious circumstances tending to connect them with the said offense could be explained satisfactorily consistent with their innocence." It was not pretended that any new evidence had been discovered, neither did the affiant state any of the facts upon which he based his "strong suspicion" of the guilt of the other parties; but he simply stated in substance that Ad. Edgar, who had been Tompkins' fast friend from the beginning, had been armed with a roving commission, with authority to proceed to hunt up the other parties (Phelps, Shepardson and Donnell) and investigate them, and if they could not explain "certain strong suspicious circumstances," then to arrest them. Every lawyer will say such an application to a court was desperately "thin." We confess to have been a little surprised on seeing it recorded that the Judge granted the application, and allowed the defendants time, and the more so when we read the motion based on that affidavit, which was for an extension of time in order to make "further investigation of the facts in said case upon which to found a motion," &c. However, the judge, thinking, we presume, that it was better to err on the side of mercy than rule harshly against men so unfortunately situated, did grant the extension to October 12th. Then, at the end of that time, on an affidavit merely stating that Edgar and Williams had not yet returned, the court granted another extension to October 22d.

The hunt of Edgar and Williams proved fruitless. Not that they could not find Phelps and Shepardson, for they were all the time where they could have been taken; but the "strong suspicious circumstances" had not then been made strong enough even to base a motion for a new trial upon. So, after two whole months' time to investigate the facts, with Edgar and Williams scouring the country for evidence, at the expense of the United States, that tack was abandoned, and a motion for a new trial was made, based on two points: (1) a general statement of insufficiency of evidence to justify the verdict; and (2) error of the court in admitting confessions of Bramlette, one of the defendants, made to Maupin and Atterberry after the robbery. The insufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict was not seriously insisted on. The objection to the confessions of Bramlette to Maupin and Atterberry was, that it was claimed the confessions were extorted by threats. That was disputed, and it was furthermore shown in evidence that Bramlette had confessed the crime to two other persons, separately, when, it was not pretended there was any threat or undue influence. Under these circumstances the judge allowed the evidence to go to the jury, with the instruction that since the confessions were made after the commission of the crime, they must not be considered or allowed any weight as against any defendant but Bramlette himself (all four being tried together); that if the jury were satisfied the confessions to Maupin and Atterbery were extorted from Bramlette, then they must be disregarded; and that all the confessions must be received with great caution, even as against Bramlette; and that as to all the other defendants, they were wholly incompetent. This is all matter of record. Lawyers will all agree that in this matter the judge went to the outside limit of the law in favor of the defendants. Of course the motion for a new trial on such grounds was overruled. To have granted it would have been to fly in the face of well settled principles of law.

On the 6th day of November, nearly two months and a half after their conviction, the defendants were sentenced to the only punishment the law permits any court to adjudge against persons convicted of the crime of which they were convicted.

6. It is stated that the judge refused to join in a petition for the pardon of the defendants; and that Attorney General Williams referred the petition back to the judge and district attorney, "both of whom wrote decidedly adverse reports on the question of pardon." The truth is, the application for a pardon was not referred to Judge Deady by Attorney General Williams, and Judge Deady did not write a line, in the way of report or otherwise, on the subject. The statement of the Washington scribbler on this point is a falsehood unrelieved by a single iota of truth.

7. Then "suspicion directed Edgar to three men named Shepardson, Darnel and Phelps." In 1872 a warrant had been issued against them, which "for some reason the marshal refused to serve," although "the whereabouts of the men was known." Exactly so. The warrant was issued, even before the trial of Tompkins and his co-defendants; it was issued on an affidavit of Edgar: and the "whereabouts of the men was known; but still "the marshal refused to serve" it. That marshal was Edgar himself. Further remark is unnecessary.

8. "In March, 1874, a new district attorney came into office," and then things went on gloriously. Yes, there did come a new district attorney into office. But before he came into office he was employed to work up the case for a pardon of the persons convicted of robbing the mails—as he might properly be—and after he came in it was very apparent that the most feasible and the cheapest way to get them out was to get somebody else in, at the expense of the United States Government. Perhaps this was all right and proper. Perhaps the course best calculated to forward the object of the former employment, was the course required by the interests of justice. We do not say it was not, but merely that, if so, it was a happy coincidence for the new district attorney. But at all events, it was a patent fact from the very first, that the prosecution of Shepardson was an agreed task between the prosecution and the fellow Phelps, and that its object was not so much the conviction of the real mail robber as the pardon of those already convicted. Phelps' imprudent statement that he got a "cool $2,000" for making his confession and testifying against Shepardson may have been a lie. If so, it was a singular lie for a man to tell on himself.

The statement of this Washington mouthpiece of the Oregon conspirators, about the evidence in the Shepardson case, and the identification of Shepardson and Phelps by eye-witnesses, is false in toto, as every person present at the trial well knows.

9. But the basest libel in the whole series, where all are too base for description, is the statement that the judge [illegible] in the Shepardson case "held that the former verdict was an acquittal of the men now being tried" and directed the jury to bring in a verdict of acquittal, on the ground that the prosecution of Shepardson et al. was barred by the statute of limitation," and to which the writer adds, "This was the first time this point had been raised." Exactly the contrary is true. The judge explicitly charged the jury that the former verdict was not an "acquittal of the men now being tried," that that verdict might be incorrect, and that the present case must stand or fall by the evidence produced on the trial. And as to the statute of limitation, that point had been raised and relied upon by the defense all through the case, had been discussed at various stages of the trial, had been considered by the district attorney, who endeavored, but in vain, to guard against it in the indictment and all the way through the evidence.

10. The statement that the judge tore up the informal verdict of the jury, or exhibited any other sign of displeasure, is as false as the rest. The judge charged the jury that the prosecution was barred by the statute of limitation, and that therefore they must return a verdict of not guilty, but that since the inquiry was one of great importance to those who were now in prison for the same offense, he requested them to say also, whether the defendant Shepardson, and those alleged to have been his accomplices, did, at the time and place alleged, rob the mail. The jury returned a verdict that the defendant Shepardson was guilty, but could not be punished by reason of the statute of limitations. The judge looked over the verdict, and said, in the quiet and easy manner common to judges when directing the correction of merely formal defects in proceedings before them: "Gentlemen of the jury, your verdict is not in form. You will correct it by finding a general verdict of not guilty, and then answering, as a separate matter, the question I have submitted to you." The jury corrected their verdict accordingly. That is the whole of the transaction. We were present, and speak from personal knowledge, and could substantiate the facts by numerous other persons.

Now, if the judge had wished to persecute Tompkins and his fellows, why did he submit the outside question to the Shepardson jury. By simply charging them to find Shepardson "not guilty" under the statute of limitations, he could have put an end at once to all the hopes of Tompkins et al., so far as their hopes depended on the Shepardson case. But here again Judge Deady went to the utmost limit of the law in favor of the former defendants.

11. The statement that Judge Deady "got down off the bench and made a most violent argument for Shepardson," etc., is another lie made of whole cloth. In both matter and manner his charge was dignified, fair, impartial, just to all parties, and courteous to counsel on both sides. It was taken down by a short-hand reporter, and is on file with the records of the case; and any person competent to judge, and not blinded by prejudice, who will take the pains to read it over, will at once agree with us in what we have said of it.

12. It is said Judge Deady's report on the last application for a pardon was published in the OREGONIAN, as a "Decision," and "so characterizes itself all through." We have that publication before us as we write, and we pronounce the statement that it "characterizes itself" as a decision "all through," or anywhere, another unqualified falsehood. There is not a word in it that can be so construed. But it came to the OREGONIAN office from the clerk's office without any caption. It was published in the OREGONIAN in the absence of the editor, and the foreman of the office, who does not pretend to be a lawyer, put over it the heading which he supposed to be proper and under which it appeared. Of course it should have been headed a "Report" and not a "decision," but the judge is in no way responsible for the error unless because he did not take the pains to prepare it with proper heading for publication before filing it with the clerk. As to the fact of publishing it, it is a public record, and we suppose it will hardly be contended there was any impropriety in its being made public.

13. There is one more passage in the letter under consideration, which deserves attention, as showing the animus and furnishes the key to the entire tissue of falsehoods. We allude to the characterization of Judge Deady as "the illiterate person acting as judge." No one who knows the facts, and who has anything in his moral make-up but malice and mendacity, could have ever written that. Besides being twenty-five years on the bench in Oregon, Judge Deady has done more than any other man in the State to mould our entire system of laws. Our constitution and all our institutions bear the impress of his mind. His judicial decisions are high authority throughout the United States. In legal learning he is the peer of the most learned judges in any State of the Union. And in the way of general culture, illiteracy is the last thing any cultivated person would think of setting down against him. He is one of the most graceful writers on the Pacific coast, and we venture the assertion that there is none on the coast, and few in any part of the country whose minds are more thoroughly saturated with the best English literature of the present and past ages. His acquaintance with the best authors is extensive and accurate, and their spirit and manner pervade not only all his literary efforts, but his everyday conversation. We should not have felt called upon to speak thus flatteringly of Judge Deady, had he not been so unjustly assailed through a journal of wide circulation in the East where he is not so well known as among our own people, and had not the unjust attack been copied into another journal of wide circulation on this coast.

To our Oregon readers, who know the character of the man thus assailed, we need make no apology for the length of this article, for they will share with us the feeling that has prompted it; to our readers abroad the serious nature of the attack on him, and the helpless situation which a judge always occupies when assailed by irresponsible malice, will serve as our apology and justification.

AN OLD AND INTERESTING PAPER.—A gentleman recently from the East has shown us a copy of the Sangamo Journal bearing date of July 12 1839. This paper was published at Springfield Illinois, and at the time mentioned was owned and edited by the late Maj Simeon Francis, who is not unknown to Oregon journalism he having at one time driven the editorial quill on this paper At the head of the first column, on the first page are the words, "The Sangamo Journal published every Friday by S Francis & Co S Francis Editor Vol VIII No. 30" and at the head of the last column first page, "S & J N Francis, printers, Whole No 402." SYNOD OF THE COLUMBIA.

FRIDAY Oct 20 1876

The Synod of the Columbia resumed business in the evening after listening to a sermon by Rev H P Peck of Salem Oregon

The work of Home Missions Church Erection and Publication were grouped and put into the hands of the Executive Committee of the Synod consisting of Rev Dr A L Lindsley chairman Rev Dr Geary Rev Mr Thompson Elder Wm Wadhams and ... Reed

The work of Foreign and Indian Missions committed to Dr Geary chairman Rev H P Peck Rev M G Mann and Elder J B Babbitt

Work of Education and Ministerial Relief to G L Whitworth chairman Rev J A Hanna and Rev Geo Ross

Sabbath School work was entrusted to Rev Messrs Stratton Swick Rev and Elder Wadhams

Portland was chosen as the next place of meeting and the stated time for the meeting was fixed on the Thursday after the first Tuesday of October

Action was taken in regard to general synodical missionary work and Rev John R Thompson elected and recommended in connection with the active duties involved

SATURDAY October 21st

Synod convened at 9 A M and spent one hour in devotional exercises Minutes read and approved Revs J R Robe Stratton and Elder Chalmers were appointed to prepare a suitable minute on the death of Rev M Monteith of Lewiston Idaho

A vote of thanks was tendered to the various railroad and steamboat companies for favors extended to members of synod at this meeting

Record of the organization according to the action of the last General Assembly of the various Presbyteries composing the Synod was made to the clerks of their respective bodies

The stated clerk was appointed treasurer of the Synod

Revs Messrs Peck Dunning Hanna Robe, and Elder Gen J B Babbitt, were appointed a committee of visitation to the Albany Collegiate Institute at the time of its next annual commencement

The committee appointed on denominational comity reported as follows

Resolved That the Synod of the Columbia intend to carry out in good faith the terms of denominational comity agreed to by the Board of Home Missions and the American Home Society and we think the interests of Christ's Kingdom will be greatly advanced by a hearty co operation of all concerned.

A movement toward convention with the Ladies Missionary Societies was taken which promises to bring a new feature of great interest into the next meeting of Synod

Synod adopted resolutions regarding the death of Rev W J Monteith expressive of the sense of the Synod in this loss to our working force.

Standing rules were adopted for the regulation of the general business of the Synod

The Occident was heartily endorsed as the organ of the Synod

The remainder of the session of Synod was crowded with routine business and the usual exercises appointed for the close of the ... bath evening services

ALASKA NOTES

A correspondent writing from Fort Wrangel under date of the 18 h sends the following

The miners on the Stikine river are leaving the diggings daily on account of the approach of cold weather Considerable snow has already fallen in the interior and the river has become so low that the Wrangel steamboats were scarcely able to reach Glenora Four hundred pack mules were sent down to Victoria on the steamer Isabel during her last trip and in three weeks it is expected that the mines will be entirely deserted

The Silver Bay mine near Sitka has been worked during the past season at a moderate profit to the proprietor

Rev Thomas Crosby missionary at Fort Simpson, recently visited Wrangel and awakened considerable religious interest among the people of that growing community A subscription paper was circulated for funds to erect a school house and church, and the citizens promptly responded to the call $400 It is hoped that a white teacher may be sent from the States to take charge of the school

About 100 miners will winter in Wrangel during the coming season in order to reach the diggings early in the spring Forty buildings have been erected within the past three months or are in the process of erection A dance house has been started and the merchants are doing a prosperous business

The manufacture of "Hoochenoo," the favorite beverage of Alaska has well nigh attained perfection among the Sitka tribes Salmon berries potatoes and rice have been added to the molasses in the distillation of an article which excels that of former years in its destructiveness and cheapness

Capt Jocelyn, 21st infantry commander at Fort Wrangel will be relieved at that post at the end of the present month by Capt Ban... ...th artillery Lieut Moore U S A will also be relieved from duty as quartermaster and commissary at Wrangel

The military authorities have arrested Messrs Reedy and Williams for selling the ... hooched in an Indian country

The assessable property of this county in 1874 was 900 ... thousands of dollars In 1876 it has increased to over $2,000,000 The number of buildings erected during the present year to date is 121 ... against 40 during a corresponding period in 1875

The ... arrived here last night bringing for the Seattle and Walla Walla railroad one narrow gauge locomotive and tender The locomotive was made by Mason & Co of New York It weighs 12 tons and was bought originally for the Sacramento and Placer railroad Co of California but that road failing to be built the locomotive was never set up and is entirely new. As soon as it is placed in running order it will be used in carrying the iron rails along the road and in generally assisting in the work of construction From present indications we have every reason to believe that the road will be built with but little delay not only the first section but the entire line through to Walla Walla

A H Jones engineer on the Nellie was drowned on last Monday night while attempting to go aboard the steamer The watchman had withdrawn the gang plank as it had grown late and substituted a light board in stead As the tide was running out the boat lay about ten feet below the wharf In going on board he no doubt slipped the board broke and he was precipitated violently forward It is thought he struck on the guard as his face was badly cut and bruised The body was not recovered until to day Mr Jones was aged about 48 years and was unmarried He was buried by the Odd Fellows of this city We understand he was a member of one of the Portland Lodges and in good standing at the time of his death

If a man will not work neither shall he eat — St Paul. If a man will not drink Noble Whisky neither shall he eat. Millard & Vanschuyver sole agents Portland.

Inquiry among the business men of the city elicits the fact that monetary matters are moving along quietly with a reasonably fair supply of funds in the market available as loans at the usual rates. The demand for accommodations from wheat shippers and others however serves to furnish a considerable amount of business for the banks and to prevent any important increased accumulation of capital in the usual depositories. We hear so far no special complaint of any scarcity of coin and the general feeling is one of at least average ease, with a good deal of activity and occasionally a case of urgency in calling in bills. The movement of the grain crop at first came on so slowly that the market was in good condition to meet the call arising from that source and with the addition of considerable outside aid local finances have not been at all stringent nor is it likely that any serious pressure will be felt in the market generally this season. A good deal of money which during the long continued depression in business matters at the East has lain idle, is reported to be now coming to light, and it may be that the higher rates of interest sustained on the Pacific coast will draw a fair share of it this way.

The attempt made in the recent Legislature to repeal the usury law in this State met with more opposition than we supposed it would and though its failure may be regretted by some, we believe the people would have gained little by the repeal. Laws regulating rates of interest though perhaps in some respects not entirely consistent with the genius of the country and age are nevertheless generally found to be productive of good results. Though inconsistent in theory in practice they are beneficial.

Trade matters present a very fair amount of activity; merchants from the interior are buying quite liberally for the winter trade and the ample stocks in the hands of the wholesale and jobbing men of this city are being largely drawn on by buyers from this valley and Eastern Oregon as well as W[illegible] Territory. Prices of merchandise generally have been steady during the fall months and [illegible] in trade have been able to make their calculations with more than the usual certainty. The late advance in wheat, and the consequent active movement in that product has put a good deal of capital into general circulation and country merchants report a very agreeable activity in trade affairs. Altogether the business outlook presents no features regarded as actually discouraging.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON Oct. 23.—Wool is in active demand above expectations, and includes a fair assortment of all grades. Fine fleeces are most sought after. Sales of Ohio and Pennsylvania have been 39@40 [illegible] X at [illegible] medium merino 40@42½ XX at [illegible]. There is very little good XX to be had [illegible] offered and refused. Sales of [illegible] 102,000 [illegible] at 38@40 and 102,000 [illegible] and X sold at 38 [illegible]. The market is quite firm at these prices. [illegible] have been more sought after [illegible] ranging at [illegible] [illegible] demand, prices firm. Sales of [illegible] X at [illegible], choice Maine super [illegible] in California [illegible]. Fall is coming for [illegible] with ready sales. The balance of the spring clip on hand is rapidly disappearing; sales of 27,000 pounds spring 27@29 fall [illegible]

Chicago Grain Market.

CHICAGO Oct 23 [illegible] has been one of less than [illegible] interest and excitement in the [illegible] No. 2 spring wheat sold early in the week for $1 06½@1 07 but later upon the [illegible] Europe the market [illegible] excited and rapidly advanced to $1 17 [illegible] gradually declined under more favorable European advices, and closed steady at [illegible] has been chiefly speculative although a good shipping demand also prevailed [illegible] for the week 753,000 bushels [illegible] bushels. Corn has also shared [illegible] and an active speculative business was transacted with frequent and severe fluctuations [illegible] range being 42½@43¾c, closing at 43¾c. The governing influences [illegible] in wheat and values [illegible] the fluctuations and changes in the price of that cereal.

Domestic Produce

The late rains have somewhat checked the receipts of wheat, as it has made the work of hauling to the river and railroad more difficult. There are, however, a number of sellers in the market, and, with the rates a little more advanced there would be large quantities to be had. Freights remain [illegible] and the prospects of immediate war in Europe being less than a few days ago buyers are somewhat cautious and purchases at more than $1 80 per cental are made on speculation. Exporters are therefore a little afraid of the present condition of the market, and transactions are not brisk, though the aggregate sales are considerable.

The flour market is firm at quotations owing to the advanced rate for wheat and the demand for shipping. Oats are in fair request at 45c per bushel while extra choice lots command 3c more. Bacon is very [illegible] at present, and rates are quite encouraging to holders. The wholesale and jobbing trade is very inadequately supplied and 16c is [illegible] for fair to choice lots. Eggs are wanted at 32½c per dozen both for the local trade and for shipment. Dried apples are coming forward pretty freely, and sun dried are now being quoted at [illegible] per pound loose and 6@6½c in boxes. [illegible] dried are proportionate. The demand for mill feed, hay, etc., is quite active and [illegible] are firm at our quotations.

TO THE VOTERS OF COWLITZ AND WAHKIAKUM COUNTIES

ILWACO PACIFIC Co. W T Oct 9.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN of Oct 7th 1876 contains an address to the independent voters of your counties signed by M S Griswold chairman of the committee nominating [illegible] for Pacific County Independent Convention. In this address Mr Griswold says:

The avowed object of this candidate C A Reed is local legislation the nature of which is [illegible] against property and vested rights. In Pacific county it is well understood that such a charge has no foundation in truth and is a cheat [illegible] in reference to the [illegible] of Cowlitz and Wahkiakum [illegible] Mr Griswold's statement [illegible] that Mr Griswold in making this charge [illegible] which he says is my chief object. If there was even the shadow of foundation for such a charge, why does he not state it like a man so that you can get an intelligent understanding of the matter upon which to base your action at the polls on the 7th day of November next. But he studiously avoids any such explanation for fear of exposing the secrets of the little squad of men for whom he assumes to speak. His pronunciamento jingle of words in which this gentleman indulges himself when he says "threats against property and vested rights" "French socialism" "Americans and the preponderance of a foreign [illegible] etc." [illegible] political trickster and [illegible] [illegible] the foreign [illegible] in this county [illegible] we have [illegible] a number of citizens in this county of foreign birth who are as a class as industrious, useful and enterprising, and [illegible] compare favorably with the average citizens of this county. And now as to my avowed object, for it is true that I have one and do not hesitate to say what that object is. As a citizen and taxpayer of Pacific county my object now is and has been in time past to promote the general prosperity of the county by giving proper encouragement in the development to each and every one of its rich and varied natural resources, to use my best endeavors to hasten the survey of agricultural lands and thereby open them up to actual settlers who come to cultivate the soil; to aid in the construction of public roads whenever they are found practicable and in cases where there is too little local labor to insure their speedy construction, if there is no authority in law by which the county commissioners are justified in appropriating money, then I am in favor of legislation to enable them to do so in all cases where the advantages to be derived will fully justify the outlay. What I have said in regard to this matter is and shall be my object for all the counties which comprise this council district. If elected to the office for which I am nominated my object shall be first to make myself thoroughly acquainted with the legislative wants of the whole district, without regard to the particular county in which I happen to reside, especially with the great salmon fishing interests now only partially developed, the greater portion of which are located within the limits of this council district. I shall deem it my imperative duty to visit and consult representative men who are engaged in that branch of industry and solicit advice and information in regard to what legislation if any is necessary to secure its permanent prosperity. Having secured proper knowledge of the legislative wants of the district you can rest assured that no effort shall be spared on my part by all honorable means to promote the best interests of the whole district.
